THE HISTORY OF KILLINEY CASTLE

"Last year being hard with the poor walks about these hills & this were erected by John Mapas, June 1742."

So reads the somewhat inadequate inscription on the Obelisk on Killiney Hill erected as a measure of poor relief by the owner of Killiney Castle. The Castle was built in 1741, although records show that a building or buildings stood here at a much earlier date. Killiney Castle as we know it today, however, has undergone many changes during the last two and a half centuries. By 1755 it was acquired by a Captain Maunsell. Some years previously Lead had been mined on the estate, but the enterprise had not proved commercially successful.

Captain Maunsell was succeeded by a Colonel Loftus in 1770. The Colonel's stay was a short one and in 1772 he advertised Killiney Castle and its 150 acres for sale. Despite his short tenure, Colonel Loftus and his nephew converted the barren, stony soil to meadow and pasture and cut a road around the hill. His successor was Lord Clonmel who in 1790 improved the estate further spending £3,000 in the process, a handsome sum of money in the early 19th Century.

The name Robert Warren is very much associated with Killiney Castle as it was he who renovated and carried out repairs to the original structure which Mapas had erected. During his life, Warren also donated land and most of the money for the building of Killiney Parish Church.

The plaque recording this gesture can be seen in the Church itself. It is said that when Robert Warren was in residence at Killiney Castle he owned another estate, that of Balldonera in West Wicklow. He ran up a flag to indicate his presence to the local residents.

Killiney Castle's subsequent owners included a Mrs Chippendale Higgan. The trees and shrubs she planted can still be seen today and provide a decorative setting for the Castle.

Today, Killiney Castle has been given a new lease of life as a first-class hotel passed on by the late Paddy Fitzpatrick to his family, who have brought their own personal flair and expertise to the management of what is proving to be a major contribution to the Dublin hotel scene.

PJ's Restaurant is named after the founder of Fitzpatrick Hotel Group, Patrick J Fitzpatrick (Paddy Fitzpatrick). Paddy was born and raised on Vico Road in Dalkey, on the other side of Killiney Hill, so Dalkey Village and Killiney Hill held a very special place in his heart.

Paddy trained as an hotelier in The Gresham Hotel and thereafter bought Killiney Castle in 1970. Its success was a source of great pride to him, being 'The Flagship' of what has become a hugely successful International Hotel Group.
